Of Beverley, Yorks. J.P., D.L. In 1833 achieved notoriety by the publication of A Letter to H.R.H. the Duke of Gloucester, Chancellor, on the present corrupt state of the University; this pamphlet which ran through several editions excited great indignation and aroused a storm of abusive criticism. It was described by The Times (Nov. 2, 1833) as 'an invidious, envenomed and offensive book.' His opposition to a clerical order 'as being alien to the Christian Faith,' found expression in a later publication, entitled Spiritual Worship, a Lay discourse (London, 1865). Author, miscellaneous; mainly controversial. Died Nov. 3, 1868, aged 70 (sic), at Scarborough. (Cooper, Annals, IV. 578; Burke, L.G.; Boase, IV. Suppl.)

Canon Residentiary of St Paul's and Chaplain to Queen Victoria. Married Maria Floyer, of Bath, May 29, 1787. Intimately associated with the children of George III. His association with the Royal Family and the many preferments bestowed upon him is mentioned in the Memoirs of T. S. Whalley, and explained as having arisen through a remarkable incident connected with the death of his father, Capt. Blomberg, then in the West Indies (see St John's Coll. Adm., iv). But according to other authorities he is said to have been a natural son of George III, and to have taken his mother's married name. In 1812 he became the owner of the Manor of Kirkby Misperton by a grant from George, Prince of Wales. Latimer in his Annals of Bristol, 19th Century, says: 'it was generally agreed that in features he strikingly resembled the Royal Family.' Died Mar. 23, 1847, aged 85, at Cripplegate. (C. R. Hudleston, Victoria Co. Hist., North Riding, Yorks., ii. 445, where his clerical status is not given and the date of death is wrong.)

Incorp. at Oxford, 1841. Founded the Museum Criticum—a Cambridge Journal intended, as he said, to be merum sal for scholars, not for striplings. Commenced his critical study of Greek texts and his famous edition of the plays of Æschylus. Corresponded with the German scholar, Hermann, on the points of difference between English and German scholarship. Ord. deacon (Bristol) Mar. 24, 1810; priest, June 16, 1810; C. of Chesterford, Essex. R. of Quarrington, Lincs., 1810–20. R. of Dunton, Bucks., 1811; took resident pupils. Set himself to reorganise the established Church. Instrumental in securing the establishment of an Ecclesiastical Commission, which resulted in the removal of such abuses as pluralism, non-residence, etc. Instituted a fund for the building and endowing of churches in the Metropolis—afterwards merged in the London Diocesan Church Building Society. Worked strenuously to remedy the inadequate provision of schools and clergy in London. Took an active part in debates in the House of Lords, opposing the Catholic Emancipation Bill but supporting the Test and Corporation Act, also the Reform Bill. In the controversy arising out of the Tractarian Movement he maintained a strictly impartial attitude. Married (1) Anna Maria Heath, of Hemblington, Norfolk, Nov. 6, 1810; (2) Dorothy Cox, widow of Thomas Kent, barrister, 1819. Described by Archdeacon Hale as one of the best parish priests...one of the most simple-hearted of mankind and one of the firmest of friends. Edited five plays of Æschylus, with notes and glossaries. Died Aug. 5, 1857, at Fulham. Brother of the next, etc.; father of Arthur W. (1847). (Al. Oxon.; Hennessy; D.N.B.; Reginald Blomfield.)

BROWN, JOSEPH. Adm. pens. at QUEENS', Dec. 16, 1825. Of Suffolk. Matric. Lent, 1826; B.A. 1830; M.A. 1833. Ord. deacon, 1829; priest (Lincoln) 1830. V. of St Paul's, Mill Hill, Middlesex, 1833–44. V. of St Matthias, Bethnal Green, 1844–9. R. of Christ Church, Southwark, 1849–67. Chaplain of Government Schools at Norwood; noted for his many acts of charity and benevolence. Organised a home for servants out of employment, and the Albert Institution, Blackfriars. Chief promoter of the Cholera Orphan Home (afterwards the National Orphan Home), founded by John Minter Morgan, at Ham, Surrey. Author, Hymns and Psalms for Divine Worship; Sermon on the death of William Wilberforce, preached at St Paul's, Mill Hill. Died Aug. 13, 1867, aged 67 (sic), at Richmond Hill, Surrey. [There is considerable confusion among authorities as to the identity of this graduate. Foster, Men at the Bar, and D.N.B., 2nd Suppl., identify him with the Bencher of the Middle Temple who died June 9, 1902, and was father of Reginald (1864), K.C., although he is not so identified in the Middle Temple Benchers, nor in The Times full obituary of June 10, 1902. On the other hand, Boase, Modern Engl. Biography and the G. Mag., 1867, identify him with the V. of St Paul's, Mill Hill, and The Times styles him M.A. in the announcement of death, 1867. Moreover, on the title-page of the Sermon, preached on Bishop Wilberforce and published in London, 1833, the author is styled 'M.A. of Queens' Coll., Cambridge.' On this evidence the above identification is assumed to be correct.
